About the Artist

Lynnette Seah

Violin · Cultural Medallion Recipient

Lynnette Seah was a founding member and Acting Concertmaster of the Singapore Symphony Orchestra in 1979, later appointed Deputy Leader (1980) and serving as Co-Concertmaster until her retirement in 2019. In 2006 she received Singapore's highest arts honour, the Cultural Medallion, and in 2014 was inducted into the Singapore Women's Hall of Fame. At Singapore's 50th National Day in 2015, she was gifted a specially designed violin bow by Education Minister Heng Swee Keat, crafted by luthier Paul Goh.

Lynnette has performed nearly every major concerto in the classical repertoire, appearing with orchestras across Europe and Asia — including in Zurich, Sweden, and Czechoslovakia — and was invited to the Bergen International Music Festival (1995) and the World Philharmonic Orchestra in Bangkok under Myung-Whun Chung (1996). She gave the world premiere of Bernard Tan's Violin Concerto with the SSO in 2006. Her ensemble, the Jade Quartet, has performed for numerous visiting heads of state at the Istana, including the Emperor and Empress of Japan and the Prime Minister of Australia.

Beyond music, Lynnette is an accomplished home chef and proprietress of Lynnette's Kitchen, a private dining venture known especially for her Peranakan cooking. As a student she appeared twice on TalentTime and famously performed Bach on Steve Jobs' NeXT Computer in a video now on YouTube

Lynnette performs on her own violin, a 1750 Gabrielli of Firenze, Italy.

Programme Notes

Cavatina

Joachim Raff

Composed in 1859, Raff's Cavatina is one of the most beloved miniatures in the violin repertoire — a lyrical, songful piece that has long served as a favourite encore.

Sonata for Violin and Piano

César Franck

Composed in 1886, Franck's Sonata is built on a single cyclical theme that returns, transformed, across all four movements — culminating in a canon between violin and piano.

Trio for Violin, Horn and Piano in E-flat major, Op. 40

Johannes Brahms

Composed in 1865, Brahms' Trio features a wistful slow movement often heard as an elegy. His choice of the natural horn lends the work its distinctive pastoral colour.

I played this in the SSO Chamber Series in 2018, and I'm very happy to share it again with Austin Larson.

With Love

Ong Lin Wei

With Love was commissioned for my former violin student, Lin Wei. The piece reflects the love and passion I have poured into both my music and cooking through my private dining project, Lynnette's Kitchen. Written for violin and piano, it brings these two aspects of my life together, celebrating the joy of creating, sharing, and expressing love through both sound and food.

Programme Notes

Londonderry Air (Danny Boy)

Fred Weatherly (arr. Germaine Goh)

Londonderry Air is a traditional Irish folk song that I have always loved.

Soul Mates

Jeremy Monteiro

"Soul Mates" marks Jeremy's return to writing chamber and symphonic jazz. The piece is about the kind of conversation that only happens between two people who truly know each other. In this arrangement, Jeremy's piano part holds a safe space for violinist and cellist to have that conversation. The melody is lilting and poignant, leaving both players ample room to show the beauty of their phrasing.

From Paris to Segré

Jeremy Monteiro & Eugene Pao (arr. Scott Routenberg)

Travelling on the two-hour train from Paris to Angers, Eugene Pao and Jeremy Monteiro heard in the rhythm of the wheels the lilt of a Brazilian choro. The tune was written back and forth by email — happy, unhurried, and strongly melodic.

Tonight's version is adapted from a chamber orchestra arrangement, with written-out solos giving both violinist and cellist room to shine. Jeremy was conferred Goodwill Ambassador to Segré for this piece.

"Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life."
